PLAYSHEET: WRITE A RANT PIECE

Take a stand on something, and show people your values. This is a great way to practice showing your real personality.

The idea is to write a rant piece about something you hate in your field. Write it not for publication at first, and don't censor yourself. You have permission to swear, to be insulting, to call people names, use defamatory language, and to be childish. Yeehaa!

Use this template to help get you started:

Write down three things you really hate in your field:

1.

2.

3.

Pick one of the above, and explain everything you hate about it:

PLAYSHEET: WRITE A RANT PIECE

Describe what you think people should do differently:

Now leave this sheet aside, and come back to it a day later.

Could you put together another more palatable version of this?

Now produce a version you can share with the public, which you could put on social media or on your blog.
